More ranges have become available between 0440 and 0468. The telephone numbering plan allows for numbers having varying lengths (9 digits for landline numbers, and 10 digits for mobile numbers), www.bipt.be. Numbers are of variable length; landlines have a seven-digit subscriber number and a one-digit area code for large cities, while smaller cities have a six-digit subscriber number and a two-digit area code. Operators will help you in the native language, in English, or the language of any neighbouring country. 0455: GSM. But landlines in Liège do not start with those sequences. Numbers are usually provided by Mobistar (re-branded as Orange), Base, or Proximus, and more recently by Telenet as well. See the table below for examples: Belgium 0x xxx xx xx - dialing a big city, such as Brussels, Antwerp, Liège and Ghent. 0xx xx xx xx - dialing a small city, such as Kortrijk, Mons, Ostend, Aalst or Verviers 04xx xx xx xx - dialing a mobile number from a landline or another mobile phone.
